

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method for the owner of a Web site to maintain his own off-line table of login names, passwords, and other authentication parameters, and submit them to a Web server for the purpose of allowing or denying access by others to the Web site. The Web site owner controls validation of users for access to the Web site or to a portion of the Web site without the need to obtain third-party Webmaster services.